

Center for Archaeological Investigations

Program Information

Program Name	Center for Archaeological Investigations
General Description / Special Programs	The Center for Archaeological Investigations is a unit of Southern Illinois University Carbondale (SIUC). The Center is committed to an active program of arch research including paleoecological research and cultural resources management. The Center presently pursues or supports arch and paleoecological research in the Midwest and Southeast US, Mesoamerica and South America. The Center's full-time staff and Research Associates have academic appointments in the Dept of Anthro at SIUC, and Center-sponsored arch projects provide funding and research opportunities for students in the dept.
Established
Country	UNITED STATES
State	IL
City	Carbondale
Address Line 1	SIUC - 1000 Faner Dr
Address Line 2	Faner 3479 - MC 4527
Address Line 3
Zip	62901
Fax	(618) 453-8467
Phone1	(618) 453-5031
Phone2
Email1
Email2
Email3
Website	http://www.cai.siuc.edu/

Program Details

Experience Offered	<ul style="list-style-type: none">• Field Work
Research Facilities	The Center has lab facilities for general analytic needs as well as a dedicated Zooarchaeology lab: http://cai.siuc.edu/researchpages/zooarchlab.html
Library Resources	The Center maintains a small reference library, with publications focused primarily upon arch and paleoecological research in areas of interest to Center staff. Standard references and journals are available in Morris Library on campus.
Internships Available
Internship Required
Publications	The Center publishes several series of volumes that report substantive, methodological, and theoretical debates and/or research in arch, including: Research Papers, Occasional Papers, and Publications in Arch. For publication info call the Center or visit our website at http://cai.siuc.edu/ .
Grants Or Funding	The Center provides an annual Visiting Scholar postdoctoral appointment for an archaeologist. The Visiting Scholar program offers the opportunity for the Visiting Scholar to develop and stage a major conference at SIUC on a topic of current interest to anthropological archaeologists. In addition, the Visiting Scholar is provided research time and facilities, and offered an opportunity to teach an advanced seminar of choice.
Certs Offered

