

University of Colorado, Museum of Natural History

Program Information

Program Name	University of Colorado, Museum of Natural History
General Description / Special Programs	The University of Colorado Museum of Natural History is an academic unit of the Graduate School at the University of Colorado at Boulder with a mission to contribute to knowledge of the natural world and the humanities through research, teaching, and public education. The museum offers a wide variety of K-12 and adult educational programs and activities throughout the year, including lectures, family days, and guided tours. The exhibition galleries are open to the public seven days a week, free of charge.
Established
Country	UNITED STATES
State	CO
City	Boulder
Address Line 1	University of Colorado, UCB 218
Address Line 2
Address Line 3
Zip	80309-0218
Fax
Phone1	303-492-6892
Phone2
Email1
Email2
Email3
Website	http://cumuseum.colorado.edu/

Program Details

Internships Available
Internship Required
Collections	The Museum's collections number more than four million objects in anthropology/archaeology, botany, entomology, paleontology, vertebrates and invertebrates. The Anthropology Section manages more than 1.5 million archaeological and ethnographic objects. The geographic foci of the collections are the North American Southwest and Rocky Mountain-Plains. The Anthropology Section also maintains and preserves comparative archaeological and ethnological collections from other parts of the world. The anthropology collections are primarily archaeological materials resulting from the systematic work of Earl H. Morris and Joe Ben Wheat. Our ethnographic collections include the Harold Case collection of Plains material culture and clothing and the Joe Ben Wheat collection of Navajo textiles. Anna O. Shepard's research collection in ceramic technology is also part of the anthropology collection.

