

Brown University - Joukowsky Institute for Archaeology & the Ancient World

Program Information

Program Name	Brown University - Joukowsky Institute for Archaeology & the Ancient World
General Description / Special Programs	The Joukowsky Institute for Archaeology and the Ancient World is dedicated to the academic study and public promotion of the archaeology and art of the ancient Mediterranean, Egypt, and Western Asia (the latter broadly construed as extending from Anatolia and the Levant to the Caucasus, and including the territories of the ancient Near East); our principal research interests lie in the complex societies of the pre-modern era. The goal of the Institute is to foster an interdisciplinary community of interest in the archaeology of the ancient world, and in the discipline of archaeology more generally. Its mandate is to promote research, fieldwork, teaching, and public outreach, with the Institute's associated faculty, students, and facilities serving as a hub for this activity.
